Course Description

This course, World Politics, intends to give graduate students a deeper understanding of some of the major theories and ideas present within world politics research. Students coming into the course may already be familiar with some of the ideas in the course on a surface level and likely have encountered them through some basic treatments in either passing or in textbooks. This course examines more of the primary material that gave life to how we understand the international world. Ultimately, students will test their own ideas about the international system by the conclusion of this class.

Course Format

Like most substantive graduate courses, this course progresses through classroom-based discussion. My goal is to keep my lecturing to a minimum, but this can only happen with student participation and engagement. Additionally, assignments in this course are oriented towards the goal of facilitating discussion and student participation.

Required Text

There are three books required for the course:

1. Waltz, Kenneth. 1959. Man, State & War. ISBN: 9780231125376
2. Waltz, Kenneth. 1979. Theory of International Politics. ISBN: 9781577666707
3. Oneal, John R. and Bruce Russett. 2000. Triangulating Peace: Democracy, Interdependence, and International Organizations. ISBN: 9780393976847
4. Axelrod, Robert. 1984. The Evolution of Cooperation. ISBN: 9780465005642
5. Schelling, Thomas. 1960. Strategy of Conflict. ISBN: 9780674840317

Course Requirements

1. Discussion 20%

It is not nearly enough for students to be present, but they must also engage in the material and give life to the theories as well as combat them within the confines of the classroom. As such, student participation and discussion is pivotal to both the course as well as the graduate student experience. At the conclusion of each class, students will hand in a one paragraph summary of how they participated and their own participation score on a scale of one to ten. The instructor will assign a final grade after assessing the student's self-assessment.

2. Discussion Memos 15%

Students will write three short memos (3 pages maximum) on a particular chapter or reading assigned for the day. The memo will be distributed to class by 5pm the night previous to class via Blackboard (so people have a chance to read it). If you are not familiar with how to send emails via Blackboard, consult with another student or with the instructor. The memo is four parts in single spaced text: a brief (no longer than one paragraph) summary of the work, 2-3 paragraphs synthesizing the material with other works or critiquing the work directly, four (4) solid discussion questions, and one citation or link to material (film, academic article, newspaper article, youtube video, song, board game, video game, etc.) related to the reading. Students will assume the lead for discussing the material for the day they have adopted.

3. Hypothesis Proposal 5%

This one page proposal will outline a research question and hypothesis that the student will test by the end of the semester. This proposal must intersect with world politics at some level and mostly serves to make sure that the hypothesis is both testable and feasible within the confines of the semester.

4. Literature Review 10%

Students construct either a full literature review or annotated bibliography that synthesizes current research on the topic. Students must include at least ten sources, five of which must be central to their hypothesis proposal. The length of the paper will be approximately 4-6 pages.

5. Data Paper 10%

Students will gather their data, assemble it into the appropriate statistical analysis program, and begin to explore both their data and their hypothesis. This paper is intended to be initially exploratory and include anything the student is willing to look at in terms of what the data looks like and how it is coded as well as distributions, ranges, tests, regressions, etc. and serves as a narrative as they explore the relationship. Much of this paper may end up in the final paper. Average paper lengths will be 8-12 pages.

6. Final Paper 20%

The final paper for this course is a culmination of the previous three paper projects and will combine into one final paper that tests the hypothesis. Much of the final paper will be refining and expanding the three previous papers, adding an introduction and conclusion, as well as making the final paper a coherent whole. The final paper will be approximately 25 pages in length.

7. Final 20%

Students will receive a take-home final that will contain two questions. Students will answer one of two questions and write a research-informed response to the question.

Final Grades

A+:97-100%	A: 93-96%	A-: 90-92%
B+: 87-89%	B: 83-86%	B-:80-82%
C+: 77-79%	C: 73-76%	C-:70-72%
D+: 67-69%	D: 63-66%	D-: 60-62%
F: 0-59%

General Guidelines and Information

1. Class will begin on time. Avoid arriving late to class; otherwise, you may miss important material, quizzes, or information about class assignments. However, being late is better than not showing up at all. If you do arrive late, attempt to arrive quietly into class and avoid making too much of a disruption. The same is true if you have to leave class early. If you miss any information due to your absence, ask a classmate for notes and to help you catch up. In general, it is a good policy to find people within the class that you can share notes with and be able to study collectively.

2. Please avoid classroom disruptions. Turn your cellphones to silent before class begins.
3. Use the APSA style of reference. To standardize citations and references, follow the guidelines set out by the American Political Science Association. Information and guidelines can be found in the following PDF file: http://www.westmont.edu/\_academics/departments/political\_science/documents/APSASyleManual2006.pdf. You can also use a site like the Citation Machine to generate your bibliography.
4. Cheating and plagiarism will not be tolerated. All written work is subject to being submitted to SafeAssignment through Blackboard. This is a program that will find copied work from both published sources, the internet, and other work by students. Student who are found to be plagiarizing or cheating on a given assignment or test will automatically fail that assignment or test. If you wish to use work from another class, you must obtain permission from both instructors. Doing so without permission is a form of plagiarism.
5. SafeAssignment: All written assignments must be turned in through SafeAssignment given the appropriate links on Blackboard as well as providing a physical copy to the instructor/teaching assistant. The digital copy is due by 5pm on the day the assignment is due to be turned in. Assignments not turned in digitally as well as physically will not be graded and receive a zero for that assignment. If you have trouble with submitting an assignment, contact the instructor immediately.
6. Missing exams and late assignments: There will not be makeup exams or quizzes. Late paper assignments will be severely penalized—as such, having work completed early will increase your chances of avoiding penalties to your grade. The standard deduction will be one full letter grade per day that the assignment is late. That is, an B– will become a C–.
7. The syllabus. the syllabus is a living document that can and will be altered throughout the duration of the course based both on need and design. Generally, this may means readings will be removed or added as needed. All changes will be listed on Blackboard, so make sure to check announcements for any such change.
8. Contacting the instructor. The best way to get in touch with me is either through email. Any question that is of general interest to the entire class should may be answered in a way that provides the answer to the entire class.
9. Accommodations: To request academic accommodations for a disability contact the Disability Resource Center by phone, (208) 426-1583, or e-mail, drcinfo@boisestate.edu. Students are required to meet with a Disability Specialist prior to receiving accommodations and may be required to provide documentation to clarify accommodation requests. Information about a disability is confidential. More information on the accommodation process can be found at <http://drc.boisestate.edu>.

Course Schedule

This is the reading you are expected to have done by the day it is assigned. As mentioned earlier, the books are going to be the longest part and you should start reading them well in advance of the due date for discussion. Suggestions for readings will also be welcomed if they are offered early enough.
